Google Classroom has a built-in “progress report” feature that will email parents a daily or weekly summary of their students' work. The nice thing about this feature is that once you enter the parent’s email address, you don’t have to do a thing. Everything is automated. The bad news is that you can’t customize the report in any way.

About guardian email summaries

This page is for teachers.

You can only add guardians for students using Classroom with a G Suite account. For details, see About Classroom user accounts.

When guardians join Classroom, they receive regular, automatic email summaries for each of their students. Guardians choose the frequency of the emails—daily or weekly—and can unsubscribe at any time.

Guardian email summaries include:

Missing work—Work that’s late at the time the email was sent

Upcoming work—Work that’s due today and tomorrow (for daily emails) or work that’s due in the upcoming week (for weekly emails)

Class activity—Announcements, assignments, and questions recently posted by teachers

By default, email summaries for your classes are turned off. Learn how to turn on and manage guardian email summaries for your class. Guardians can’t access Classroom or view your class stream.

Here's a sample guardian email summary:
